

ONWỌ

Wax Model

Onwọ directly translates to 'beeswax' in English and can be used to describe the wax model made by brass-casters. It is an essential material used in the lost-wax technique, because when heated the Onwọ melts and creates a vacuum for the molten bronze or brass.

