

EMA

Drum

Ema (drums) have different forms and shapes. The Kettledrums (Obiza) consist of a clay pot whose opening is covered with the skin of a viper. Obiza is played especially by Ivbiosakon hunters to accompany their dances. The cylindrical drums (Emedo) consist of the hollowed trunk of an Oma tree with a stretched skin across the top that is pegged and braced.

